Art Unit: 2674

1. Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:
  - I. Claims 1-8, 23-27, drawn to a display device in which the display state is prescribed by the distribution state of particles, classified in class 345, subclass 107.
  - II. Claims 9, 10, 20-22, drawn to a display device having a refresh circuit, classified in class 345, subclass 94.
  - III. Claims 11-14, drawn to a display device having a writing circuit, classified in class 345, subclass 90.
  - IV. Claims 15, 16, drawn to a display device having gradation which is controlled by pulse-surface-area modulation, classified in class 345, subclass 89.
  - V. Claims 17-19, drawn to a display device having charged particles which are formed of a plurality of types of charged particles with differing quantities of electric charge, classified in class 345, subclass 84.
  - VI. Claims 28, 29, drawn to a recording device for recording on to a sheet-shaped recording medium and comprising a signal supply source, classified in class 345, subclass 211.

2. The inventions are distinct, each from the other because of the following reasons:

Inventions I-VI are related as subcombinations disclosed as usable together in a single combination. The subcombinations are distinct from each other if they are shown to be separately usable. In the instant case, invention II has separate utility such as a display device having a refresh circuit without changing the distribution state of the particles as in invention I, invention III has separate utility such as a display device having a writing circuit comprises a switch for turning the data writing on/off without a refresh circuit as in invention II, invention IV has separate utility such as a display device having a gradation which is controlled by pulse-surface-area modulation without a writing circuit as in invention III, invention V has separate utility such as the charged particles are formed of a plurality of types of charged particles with differing quantities of electric charge without a display device having gradation as in invention IV, invention VI has separate utility such as a recording device having a plurality of roller pairs for feeding and securing the sheet-shaped recording medium without a display device having charged particles are formed of a plurality of types of charged particles with differing quantities of electric charge as in invention V, invention I has separate utility such as a display device in which the display state is prescribed by the distribution state of particles without a plurality of roller pairs for feeding and securing the sheet-shaped recording medium as in invention VI. See MPEP § 806.05(d).

3. Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art as shown by their different classification, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

4. Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and the search required for Group VI is not required for Group I-V, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

Art Unit: 2674

5. Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art because of their recognized divergent subject matter, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

6. A telephone call was made to G. Gregory Schivley on 5/5/03 to request an oral election to the above restriction requirement, but did not result in an election being made.

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include an election of the invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143).
